Opera Turbo is the best solution to load web pages faster on a slow connection. By launching Opera Turbo, you instantly receive a boost of about 70% in page loading speed. Why it's better than other browsers Opera Turbo is more advanced than other web browsers, but how is it better than Google Chrome or Mozilla Firefox? It's quite simple: its technology is simple, and it's not as complicated as Chrome or Firefox. Chrome and Firefox tend to be quite complex. These browsers load several elements (text, images, video) in parallel, and this definitely takes more time than Opera Turbo. However, Opera Turbo still provides a feature to load web pages faster, as it can be used with a single click of the mouse. Other great features The most prominent feature that enables Opera Turbo to work so well is that its pages load faster. But Opera Turbo provides other notable features. To begin with, it's simple, easy to use, and very intuitive. It has great video and image quality and has automatic streaming support. Opera Turbo supports multiple platforms, including desktop, mobile, and the Opera browser itself. You also have the advantage of the Opera browser itself, which has more powerful functions and is easier to use. How to enable Opera Turbo Opening Opera Turbo is easy. Simply press the Turbo button on the lower left corner of the screen, and it will be activated. You will then receive notifications about network speed, which will help you if you are dealing with a slow connection. Moreover, if you want to see how the Turbo button works, just try to load a page. You will instantly notice the progress bar appearing (that's normal), and then, it will be replaced by a message saying you have been served faster. It works similar to other Turbo buttons found on different websites. Installation and features to be aware of Now that you know what Opera Turbo is, you can think of the installation process. Simply download it from the official website or from the Opera Software Market (for Android, iOS, Windows, or Mac). To activate, you need to either right-click on the button, or press the Turbo button. Once installed, you may start browsing to your heart's content.
