zzStars Product Key Screensaver is a screensaver that shows a rotating star field, with a date and time overlay. This screensaver doesn't actually portray the top part of a star, like the one you'll find in the original Microsoft Starfield. Instead, it presents a rotating pattern of stars: A rotating image of a star field is displayed on the screen. Each star you see will spin at a different speed, and the image will alternate between a transparent star field and a picture of a star. The date and time will be presented in the top-right corner of the screen, and will rotate around the star field at a rate of 1 to 1, with the current date and time available in the upper-right corner. The date and time change as you rotate around the star field, showing the current date and time when you look in the upper-right corner. While the date and time animation is available in all four corners, two of them will always be present: the current date and time in the upper-right corner, and a second one in the top-left corner of the star field.

Note: zzStars offers the ability to add it as a screensaver, and this requires Windows 98/Windows 95, Windows 98SE, and Windows 2000/Windows NT 4.0/Windows XP. Installation is very simple. Just place the EXE in the main Windows folder (most often, system32) and that's it. There is an optional manual installation option. If you use the manual installation, you can view the help file by launching the EXE. You can turn off or change the current setting by using the screen saver settings that are available in Screen saver Settings. Download zzStars Screensaver A: You can download at zzstars.com. This is a screensaver using the cleartype effect to show the stars going at high speed. DeCommander & PCBootmaker Description: DeCommander is a free screensaver software that allows you to set it up automatically when Windows starts, and to specify the time of day, weather, and other information. There are times when you'd like to go to sleep, but can't because of Windows starting and you can't get back to sleep without having to manually set the time and schedule to your liking. Fortunately, with DeCommander you can log back in and simply set everything to your liking. Using DeCommander requires a PC running on Windows XP or later. PCBootmaker lets you record the computer boot process and specify the time of day, weather, and other details. Once you set up the time and weather you want, just reboot as normal and the time and weather will be set to your liking and you'll be able to get back to work. You may want to use PCBootmaker to record the boot process as you go through it so you can get to the desktop and make certain you have all the files and documents you need in the correct location.
